SWIMMING CELEBRITIES.

THE group of portraits that we present to our readers this week includes nearly all the most celebrated swimmers of the present day, and as many of the best known among them have risen slowly from the ranks, it includes many of the swimming heroes of days gone by. The Holborn Aquatic Association Room, "aide-de-camp" "Casino," was a swimming bath. Of course our space is too limited to go at length into the details of any one swimming bath, but we can allow ourselves to describe briefly the distinctive peculiarities and circumstances of each.

Mr. Beckwith is the most popular swimmer of the day, and has great many patrons and pupils around him. He gives at different intervals through the season some very interesting swimming entertainments at the Lambeth Swimming Bath, on the south bank of the river, his family, consisting of two boys and a little girl (Miss Jessie Beckwith), appear in public before large numbers of spectators. Beckwith is tall and very strong, and, though he has been the victor in every contest (and they have been many) in which he has been engaged; and his last match with Walker (which occurred at the "Casino" in the group) seems to have established him in an almost undisputed supremacy in the swimming art.

Wallace Barnes, who may be considered to rank next to Beckwith as a swimming master, not in teaching capacity, but in position. He is surrounded by pupils and pupils; and he was constructed little bath at Pinhook, where he has established his head-quarters, is likely to overtake those nights when an aquatic entertainment is announced under his management.

Professor Poulton fills pretty much the same position in Manchester as Beckwith does in London, as Mr. Beckwith does in the metropolis. He is, indeed, to possess an ubiquitous influence, for he is equally known, and gives entertainments in both Manchester and Birmingham.

Mr. Stiles has also a considerable reputation. He has won a very large number of prizes, which leaves little of his time for a chess; visible when he shows them, and the trophies themselves reflect considerable credit on the liberality of the swimming club and entertainment of masters of the days when they were contestants. We have nothing so elaborate now-a-days.

Mr. Donovan, who has recently gone to the Red Sea, was justly termed the amateur champion. Of almost every contest in which he entered he was the winner, and it is not at all improbable that when he returns he will take the first position in the swimming world. With regard to his swimming power, his success is mainly attributable to the great muscular power with which he is endowed.

Mr. Walker is now second only to Beckwith, whom, as we have mentioned above, he was recently matched. He has now taken a position as swimming master at Newcastle-on-Tyne, where we trust his swimming capabilities will be as much, if not more, appreciated than they have been here.

Mr. Ruffles may be justly considered as the most graceful side swimmer of the present day. The easy grace and speed of his movements, and the ways obtained by him, are well-known and reputation.

Moore, Woodbridge, Houson, and Pleard are at the head of what may be termed "ornamental" swimming. They are very skilful in the water, and formerly constituted the staple of practical swimming entertainments.

Mr. Price and two (Moore and Houson) have each a local reputation.

It is difficult to say whether either of this list does not seem to render their movement in the water any the slower, and they are two of the swiftest swimmers imaginable for a short distance.

Messrs. Heriot, Underhill, and Davis are generally at the head of swimming clubs, and have done much for the promotion of swimming.

Messrs. Boyce and Payton amateurs who have long been swimming circles, and have been the victors in several contests for swimming prizes.

In conclusion it is, we think, most clearly ascertainable that swimming is gradually gaining ground in public estimation. There are, as we have stated incidentally above, well known swimming masters at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Manchester, and Birmingham, and the former's pupils who have recourse to the aid of such well known men as Beckwith, Ramage, and Woodbridge, together with the crowds of swimmers who attend the swimming entertainments, in our opinion clearly attest that the interest in this manly art is fast widening; and if future evidences were to be given of the point, the generosity of Sir William Fraser, who has given a gold medal for a swim in the Serpentine, to the swimming cup which he presented to Manchester, to another cup which will be swan for next month in the Thames, and to the shower of silver medals distributed by swimming clubs. Surely here is a sufficient enough herald for the practice of the art, and friends of swimming may well be sanguine as to the future.

PRIZE SWIMMING AT DERBY.—A few days back Professor Garford, who has been engaged for some time past in giving lessons in the art of swimming at the Corporation Baths, Full-street, Derby, and at the Corporation Baths, Gell-street, Nottingham, gave a grand aquatics gala to his Derby and Nottingham friends on first-opening bathes. There was an extremely numerous party of spectators, who appeared to take the highest interest in the proceedings. The first match was held in the second-class swimming bath, comprised several duck hunts, and a prize consisting of a silver pencil-case, given to the best swimmer under 14 years of age, was carried off by Master Alfred Mynne, son of the baths' superintendent. Two other lads from Nottingham entered themselves for the prize, but were unsuccessful in their efforts. The second match, a race for scientific swimming, was won by Mr. Monkhouse, druggist, whose feats in the water were considered by the spectators to be very clever and skillfully executed. Nine young men then competed for a gold breast-pin, four lengths of the bath; and, after three heats, the deciding one was won by Mr. Powell, who, after being professed, then went through a series of evolutions, diving two lengths of the bath, turning summersaults, &c. &c. Mr. Garford's pupils also took part in the aquatic sports which were extremely creditable to their tutor, and showed what young men really can do in the water if they are perseveringly inclined.

BECKWITH'S SWIMMING MATCH.—This swimming match is likely to create a considerable amount of interest. Beckwith has deposited £5 for his novice, and £100 for his Augustus, and expressed a desire to swim him, or any other one-legged swimmer, for £100, or £200 if that sum suits him better. According to the articles the match is to take place at the Leaf-street Bath, on Wednesday, August 1st, commencing at 11th, for £20 a side and the Manchester Champion Cup. The deposits are to be made weekly. The men to start between the hours of six and eight p.m., by report of a pistol.

C. Moore, having heard that Mr. W. Woodbridge, Victoria Park, wishes to swim, and well knowing that he is at the Lambeth Baths, is now prepared to swim him, or any other one-legged swimmer, for an amount not to exceed £30, and will meet them at Mr. Powell's, the Rose and Crown, 47, Broad-street, Bloomsbury, on Monday next, July 14, at eight p.m., when a match can be made.

QUOTAS.—NEWCASTLE.—A match for £200 came off at the Field House, Jesmond, on Monday, between Joseph Patterson and Robert Rogers, both of Newcastle. The distance was 100 yards. In this distance, 101 shots up, Rogers to receive 10 shots start. Notwithstanding the advantages given to his opponent by Patterson, the latter, who is one of the best players in the North of England, was the favourite, and 2 to 1 was offered on him when the men commenced to play. The odds were 10 to 1 at first, and were raised to 100 to 1 like 10 to 99. Rogers at this time being only 70; but after this point Rogers scored with singular rapidity, and eventually scored 100 to Patterson's 97. This caused chopping and changing, produced distrust among betters, and the consequence was that all bets were declared off, and the men were not considered to have improved their honest fame.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

TRAINING.—T. HORN.—“Practical Training for the Million,” published at this office, is complete in itself, part 4th, free. We do not know a work specially adapted for the branch of sports you mention, but if only you would send us a sketch of your project in the work above mentioned, TURE.—O. O. P.—Leamington won the Chester Cup the year Blinck Benyon won the Derby. 2. Never.

L. M. Fisher and Horwold, 569 Strand.

A SENSELESS AND ANTIMONIAL.—Fau Je Jole, a chestnut filly, by Longbow, out of Jeu d’Esprit. 2. The filly was ridden in primrose jacket and black cap. Caretta was ridden in light blue jacket and white cap.

Coward.—W. H. D. and Son.—When the Devil’s Oak, or St. Leger; and Major Marchioness as non-favourites were run in Derby.

PETER FISHERS.—Livingstone will meet Blue Mantle for the Convalescent Stakes (Dover), and Lord Clinton for the Hardwick Stakes (Stockton), this season; and both of them, together with Saccharometer and other clippers, in the same race.

PEDESTRIANISM.—J. SMITH.—We do not think the want of food would create the feeling you describe. Your wind cannot be anything like good order, AN AMATEUR PEDESTRIAN.—At any of the professional houses by leaving a deposit, and paying it, is the best way to get a room.

JULIA.—W. H. D. and Son.—No such time was ever recorded. If you had considered a moment you would have found it so. An express train is nothing to such a pace.

MONTREAL.—W. H. D. and Son.—It certainly is a little man, but the term is used as one of endearment rather than as really applicable to the man’s stature.

WILLIAMS (of Troy).—If you apply to Mr. Smith, of the Proud Peacock, he will put you in the way of getting a room.

MISCELLANEOUS.—It does not do to assume cognomina and cast them off so suddenly. You lose prestige.

EMMINS.—There are none published. Let your club be put in order by a professional, who would do it for a trifle and give more satisfaction eventually.

BABETTES.—PURCHASER.—W. AUGUSTUS WOLWICH.

THEATRICAL.—ANINDAR SLEEK.—We know of no such work. Try before a master of the art; it is the only way of obtaining the effects desired.

HAROLD.—W. H. D. and Son.—Mr. Fletcher was the first to adopt the mafex hair. Our opinion is that it is quite an immaterial item; no genius can be displayed in the mere choice of a wig.

CATO.—M. Pope died in 1833.

A WOMAN PLAYER.—Appeared on the Royal Italian opera in 1833.

the Londoners drew themselves clear at the Poplars, and so continued to the end of the race, in which both rowed very capitally.

THE TOWN CHALLENGE CUP.

FOUR OARS.

Oxford Staff Rowing Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1
Windsor Rowing Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0
Bury Royal George Boat Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0

The Oxford Crew.—Messrs. G. Webb, C. Haist, J. Chandler, and T. Buckett; H. Hinton (cox).
The Town Crew.—Messrs. J. Radnor, W. Neighbour, A. Neighbour, and P. Hunter; T. Capes (cox).

The Bray Crew.—Messrs. E. Woodhouse, J. Smith, T. Matthews, and C. Mickley; H. Scott (cox).

This was, after a short distance, a most hollow race. They started tolerably well, and then the winners left the others and came in a long way ahead.

THE LADIES' CHALLENGE PLATE.

EIGHT OARS.

Oxford University College Boat Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1
Eton College Boat Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0

The Oxford Crew.—Messrs. G. Robertson, J. E. Parker, C. N. Gray, J. M. Colver, A. McGill, A. E. Seymour, F. H. Kelley, and J. H. Forrester; J. Dempster (cox).

The Eton Crew.—Messrs. C. P. Lawes, H. P. Lanhouse, J. R. Selwyn, R. A. Kinglake, J. Parkinson, W. T. French, W. R. Griffiths, and A. Brassey; H. C. Neighbour (cox).

The winners were the favourites. Eton were on the Berks side. They started evenly, and maintained a very capital race for half a mile. In the beginning of which Eton had a very trifling momentary lead, and thus held their opponents but for a few moments. After that the Oxford gradually drew their length clear, and so finished.

THE STEWARDS' CHALLENGE CUP.

FOUR OARS.

Oxford Brasenose College Boat Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1
Cambridge Third Training Boat Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0

The Oxford Crew.—Messrs. H. C. Harris, R. Sheppard, W. Champneys, and W. B. Woodgate; C. J. Parkins (cox).

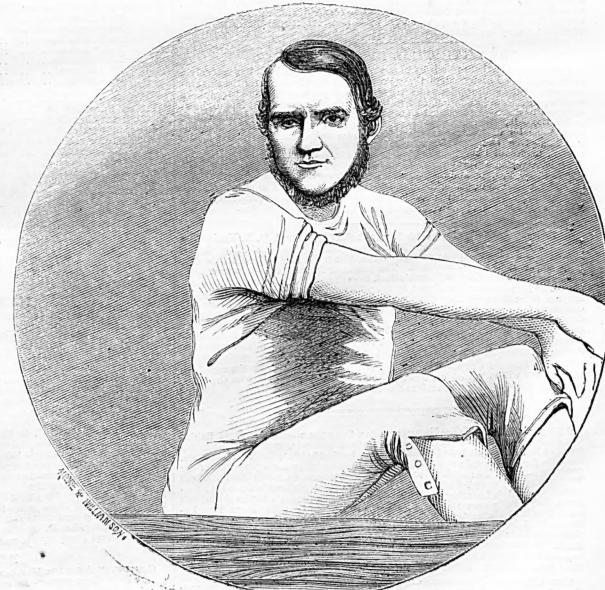

The Cambridge Crew.—Messrs. C. Orme, W. H. Wright, J. E. Hawshaw, and J. G. Chambers; T. K. Gaskell (cox).

Oxford had the Berks side, and up to starting before the rowing were the favourites, but, contrary to Mr. Webber's exhortations in the scullers' race, there were many disposed to back the Cambridge crew, who were certainly fresh. It was a good race, the winners not having more at first than a very slight lead, and so tightly did the Cambridge men hold them that the Oxford men had given half a mile before they had pulled their boat away. They continued to pull hard, their opponents rowing with much spirit, and the race was won by two lengths.

RACE WITH PICKED LONDON WATERMEN.

FOUR OARS.

George Hammerton's Crew	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1
Henry Kelly's Crew	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0

The Second Crew.—Joseph Wise, Kew; William Pocock, Lambeth; John Mackinney, Richmond; Henry Kelly, Fulham; Mr. B. Glaister, Oxford (cox).

The start was good, as was the pace throughout. The winners took a slight lead, and kept it to the end, winning by a clear length.

THE VISITORS' CHALLENGE CUP.

FOUR OARS.

Oxford Brasenose College Boat Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1
Cambridge Third Training Boat Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0

The crews are above given, but Mr. Parry steered the Oxford, in lieu of Mr. Parkins. It was a repetition of the Stewards' Challenge Cup. They started together, and shortly afterwards the winners drew gradually in advance, and won by two clear lengths. The Cambridge men had a fresh boat in this race.

THE WYFOLD CHALLENGE CUP.

FOUR OARS.

London Rowing Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0
West London Rowing Club	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0

The crews are above given, but Mr. Parry steered the Oxford, in lieu of Mr. Parkins. It was a repetition of the Stewards' Challenge Cup. They started together, and shortly afterwards the winners drew gradually in advance, and won by two clear lengths. The Cambridge men had a fresh boat in this race.

THE SILVER GOBLET.

FOUR OARS.

Oxford, Champsneys and Woodgate	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1
Cambridge, Hawkshaw and Chambers	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	0

It was a dashing race all through. The Cambridge men had the Berks place, and when they went away the pace was even and good. They pulled together a great deal, and were always in close touch. The Oxford were well clear, but their opponents put on a fine spurt, and at half-way overlapped them, and right to the finish. It was a most determined race, only won by a length.

There were a great many patrons of aquatic sports present, and amongst them Earl Kimberley. It is much to be regretted that the races this time have

CHLORODYNE (Trade Mark)

Discovered and named by Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE,

M.R.C.S., Ex-Army Medical Staff.

The question asked by Invalids, Families, and Household

—What is the best medicine to give in the above diseases, and what is the best treatment?—The answer is none other than thousands of suffer and invalids, and invalids of all kinds, in this country, are in a condition of invaluable relief afforded by this remedy above all others.

CHLORODYNE is a liquid taken in drops according to age.
